Description/Profile

Architects datafile is published monthly and distributed to architects and other specifiers within architectural practices.

Architects are involved in the planning, designing, specification, modelling and overseeing of buildings and construction. They must thoroughly understand the building and operational codes under which they must conform. Architects Datafile fulfils the Architects' needs to be regularly informed and updated on new products, procedures and legislation.

Architects and specifiers are not only in control of what they purchase for themselves, but will also have a large influence over other individuals and companies they work with.

For £1000 + VAT you can broadcast to the ADF Architect e-mail database of around 12,000 e-mails.
